What makes a guy like you

First of all, I understand that surviving high school can be veryhard, especially when it comes to those relationships. Don't let anyone tell you that they are only schoolyard relationships. Sure, they may not always be serious, but for those of you that do get into serious relationships in high school, you should know that they will actually leave an impression on your life, whether they last or not.So, are you a girl and you are in need of tips on how to make a guy like you? Then you came to the right place! Of course, you will never be able to "make" a guy like you, it is either there or not there.However, there are some things that you can do that will open up those eyes and let them see the "true" you. Girls, since there is no magical wand that we can wave around, we have to take the hard route. However, I have decided to cheat just a tinsy winsy bit...I decided to turn to one of my* favorite guy friends who made it through those high school relationships. Take note that he was a super nova when he was in high school (lol). Anyways, I got him to personally give me 12 insider tips *on how to make a guy like you. He said that those girls who used these technics on him, captured his attention every time... So here we go:Table of contents:12 Get His AttentionIn order to get a guy to like you, he has to first notice you. You need to try to get his attention first. If he looks past you each time, then just speak to him. Say "hi" and send him a smle. May be even a little "wink" before you walk away. When you walk away, he will be standing there wondering if that was a wink. He may think of it and try to figure out what that "wink" meant.11 Get CloserA good way to get him to notice you would be to join clubs that you know he attends, but make sure you enjoy those clubs as well. That way, he will see that the both of you have something in common. Don't sign up for something that you do not like though, cause this should be something both of you enjoy, so that you could show how fun and smart you are all in one...10 Wave at HimWhen he waves back at you, then that means that he has noticed you. Don't expect any guy to notice you, it does not always work this way. (I did this a lot. At first, you feel like a fool, but when you get that waive, you will feel special).9 Flirt!Girls, break out with that innocent look and flirt with him. Be playful, but do it in a friendly way. Just do not go overboard with it. Try looking at him until he looks at you. When he looks back at you, look away from him. THEN look at him again. (Yes, this is definitely some good flirting advice and I have personally used it more than once... In fact, this is how I met my husband! Actually, I met my husband by talking to my makeup - it's a long story and I am focusing on you right now...)8 Be There for HimLet the guy know that you are there for him. You can find some way to let him know that you want to talk to him. Sometimes, texting works.7 PlayGive him a note when you are in the halls or in class, think of something fun.6 Use InternetAsk him for his Instant Messenger address. Sometimes, talking online is the best route to take.5 Support HimWhen you see that he has a problem, no matter how big or small it maybe, just let him know that you are there for him to lean on emotionally. Nearly every guy likes to be comforted. Some show this differently than others do. Take it from a guy, guys like comfort and they notice girls who give it.4 Be More ActiveIs there a dance coming up? If you are friends, then ask him if he is going with someone. Gone are the days where girls had to sit around waiting for that guy to ask them. Girls are now able to ask guys to dances and there is nothing wrong with it.3 Be His Friend at FirstWhen he starts to get close to you, try to be his friend. Do not try to be his girlfriend or anything special. Just be his friend and leave it at that...for now.2 SmileSmile at him when you pass him in the hallway. You have a beautiful smile, so I am sure that will get his attention.1 LaughWhen he says something that is funny or even not that funny, giggle at him, guys really appreciate it when we get their sense of humor no matter how bad it is.Girls, walking up to him and saying "PLEASE NOTICE ME NOW!" is not going to work. He will look at you as if you are a weird girl. SO, you need to take these tips and run with them.Also, if any guys are reading this post, would you please post your opinion on this topic? Iwould like to know more and have more advice than what my "highschool, Super Nova" friend has given me. Also girls, if you have advice, do feel free to share... There can never be too when it comes to love! It would save us all a whole lot of trouble and heartache. But they have a weird way of making us feel like we're not... It's a truth universally acknowledged: Dating is the worst. You may think you may know a guy's true feelings toward you, but then... they go and do something hurtful that leaves you in the dust. That's why figuring out exactly how to tell if a guy likes you can help you read between the lines and figure out exactly where you two stand.However, knowing how to tell if a boy likes you isn't always as easy as we'd like it to be, which is why knowing how to spot the subtle signs a guy likes you is a must—especially if you want to navigate the dating game with finesse or are looking for true love.So how do you know if a boy likes you enough to possibly become someone special? Here are some surefire signs he likes you that can help you decipher how he really feels.How to Tell If a Guy Likes You1. He is touching you. (istock)Men are usually a little bit more physical than women. So, when a guy tries to touch you when it's not necessary, it's usually a great way to tell if he likes you. When he wants to emphasize something and he touches your hand or he accidentally touches you with his knee, they're usually small signals to show you his true feelings.2. He remembers small details about you.If you met him a few times and he memorized some detail of your previous conversation, it's not for nothing. When he likes you, he'll pay more attention to what you say because he may be trying to find a deeper meaning and connection.3. You two are social media friends.Guys do not send requests for friendship to girls that they are not their friends, family, or they do not like. More precise social media signs that he wants to take it to the next level are liking your photo or sliding into your DMs.4. He gives you eye contact. (istock)Your new crush may be trying to get direct eye contact with you to tell you indirectly that he likes you. If he maintains eye contact with you, he's definitely interested. On the other hand, if he breaks eye contact with you and continues gazing around the room, then he may not be interested in you and you can go back to texting other people.5. He makes an effort in the conversations you have.If a guy likes you, he'll make an effort to talk to you. What might start as an awkward conversation may blossom into a great chance to get to know one another. Sometimes guys don't know what to say to add to the conversation, but in the end, they'll show you they are interested with their listening skills and the tone of voice. If his voice seems to trail off when the two of you are talking, it's not likely he is interested in you. But if his voice is deep and present, and asking questions about what you are saying, he is probably crushing on you too.6. He's using "alpha" body language.Your new man wants to show you that he's the leader of the pack that can take care of you. If he stands taller, pulls his stomach in and his shoulders back, and walks with confidence then that's a great sign that he likes you.Related: 13 Ways to Grow Stronger as a Couple—According to Relationship Expert Dr. John Gottman's Advice 7. He asks if you have a boyfriend. (iStock)Now it's pretty obvious that if he asks you, "Do you have a boyfriend?" then he's clearly interested in being your boyfriend. However, not many guys are going to be that direct. Instead, they'll ask indirect questions to figure it out. Maybe, he'll mention that he's single in the hope that you will say "me too."8. He gets jealous when you talk to other guys.If you're talking to other guys whether online or in person, your crush might start looking over at you and wonder what's going on. A guy that isn't interested in you wouldn't bother looking when you're talking to other guys. Don't worry, as soon as you signal that you only have eyes for him with a nice, beautiful smile, he's sure to be all yours again.9. He wants to help you with your problems.Guys are natural problem solvers. And when it comes to the person they're falling in love with, they want to find a solution to every problem they hear about. If you mention a problem you have, and he likes you, he'll likely scan his brain searching for solutions. A guy that likes you will go the extra mile. They'll want to be your knight in shining armor that saves the day.Signs a Guy Likes You10. He looks for your reaction when he makes a comment or joke. (iStock)This tip is great to watch for when you're in a group of friends. If he makes a comment to the group, or attempts to tell a joke, and then he looks at you to see your reaction, that's a great sign that he's into you! It shows that he's seeking your approval or trying to impress you.11. He's letting you know about his future plans.If he's talking about his plans for the future that go beyond just a job promotion, then there's a chance that he genuinely likes you for you! Why? Because he might potentially see you in his future and he's trying to work out if you fit into his plans.Related: Dating Tips From the Cast of the Hit Broadway Show, Significant Other 12. He drunk dials you.You know the saying: "A drunk's person's words are a sober person's thoughts." Well, it definitely applies here! Alcohol has a way of making you honest with your emotions. So if they're calling you or texting you when they're drunk, it's a great sign that they like you (be careful of those 2 am booty calls though!).13. He changes his behavior when you're around.Boys react differently to stress than girls. But if they behave a little differently than usual, like talking more or less, it's possible that he likes you but doesn't know how to show it.14. He dresses to impress.It's simple. No girl wants to go out with a guy who looks like a slob. If he puts a little more effort into his appearance or wears fancy cologne when you're around, it's a fair assumption that a guy likes you!15. He offers to buy you things.A great way to tell if a guy likes you if he offers to buy you dinner or support you when you're in a financial rut. He wants to take care of his girl and keep her happy!How Do You Know If a Boy Likes You16. His friends leave you two alone. (iStock)If you come around to his place and his friends leave you two alone, there's a high chance that he likes you. Why? Because he has obviously told his friends that about his feelings for you and he is looking for some quality alone time.17. He defends you when someone is insulting you.Like women, men are usually pretty territorial when it comes to their partner. If a guy acts up in a bar or his friends won't let up teasing you, don't be surprised if your crush comes to your defense.
