This is the technique most used by beginners to learn the song step by step. This part will inevitably take time because it is a matter of work. Now we're going to look at the left hand! For the left hand, we will proceed in the same way. If you want to learn Happy Birthday on the piano more faster and for free, just go to our piano app, connect your keyboard to your device and learn at your own pace (the app listens to how you play and waits for you to play the right notes before continuing). Piano Happy Birthday: video tutorial of the right hand. To memorize and master the right hand quickly, we advise you to repeat it in a loop several times in a row. The C is the first note of the left hand in the Happy Birthday song. Rather than spending 5 hours a day playing this passage in a loop, prefer sessions of 20 minutes every day. You will therefore have to be patient and work rigorously. We will identify the first note of the song, then work on the sequence of notes that follows. To play the left hand of Happy Birthday, start by positioning your finger on the C note of your piano keyboard (the one on the third octave of an 88-key piano). The G is the first note of the right hand in the Happy Birthday song. Once you have found the first note G of the song, you have to play the following notes one after the other: G - A - G - C - B - G - G - A - G - D - C - G - G - E - C - C - B - A - F - F - E - C - D - C. This sequence of notes corresponds to the whole of the piano song Happy Birthday in the right hand. This is called hand dissociation. This work is not easy because it requires our brain to dissociate to play two different melodies at the same time. This is why we have made you play first the right hand and then the left hand. But don't worry, it comes quickly! There are a number of techniques that will allow you to dissociate your hands faster. To learn faster your hands to dissociate, you can take a short sequence of a few seconds at the very beginning of the song and work it in a loop with both hands. Let's start with the notes of the Happy Birthday song you have to play with your right hand. As a guide, you can watch the following video tutorial that shows you how to play Happy Birthday with both hands: Piano Happy Birthday: video tutorial of the whole song with both hands. Congratulations, you just played your first piano song! You see, it wasn't that hard. Our brain being used to symmetry, dissociation is not something it's used to process. You will see that after a few minutes, your piano playing will become more and more fluid. Start by positioning yourself on the note G in the center of the piano (on the fourth octave on an 88-key piano). Piano Happy Birthday: the notes of the right hand. Do the same for this one, and once you've mastered it, play the two sequences in a row. Our advice: frequency of training is more effective than persistence. You will then know the whole right hand. Take your time and don't try to go fast. The rhythm of the song and the coordination of your hands are difficult piano exercises. Piano Happy Birthday: the notes of the left hand. As for the right hand, the notes of the left hand respect well-defined beats which must be taken into account to play in the rhythm of the song. Once you have found the first note with your left hand, just like the right hand, simply press each of the keys in the following sequence one after the other: C - C - G - C - C - C - F - F - C - G - C. Pressing each of the notes in this sequence will play the whole left hand of the song. The left hand giving the rhythm and serving more as an accompaniment to the piece, you won't recognize Happy Birthday by playing it alone. But it's indispensable on piano because without it you will not be able to give depth to your playing. You can practice by watching the following video tutorial: Piano Happy Birthday: video tutorial of the left hand. Congratulations! You now know how to play the right and left hand of the song Happy Birthday. Well, great! In the next chapter, we present 20 easy piano songs for you to practice. But the hardest part is still to come. Now you have to play both hands at the same time! The greatest difficulty when you start learning piano is to play on piano? When you feel more comfortable with the sequence, play it a little faster. If you play all these notes in a row, you will easily recognize the melody. To respect the beats of each note, you can use the following video tutorial of the Happy Birthday song to play them correctly. Note: this video tutorial helps you to know the notes to play. Once you think you have mastered it, move on to the next sequence.
