Fishing report cowichan river

Cowichan river fishing report 2021.

From the bridge upstream to the village of Lake Cowichan is the best trout fishing on the river. Besides the Cowichan's somewhat confusing regulations is the question of angler's ethics. Most of the action is from Duncan through the middle portion of the river. The larger Cowichan rainbows, cutthroat and brown trout gorge themselves on salmon fry in the spring. The W.M.B. begins to hatch in March, but the river is usually too high at that time to have dryfly action. By mid April there is no place I would rather be than the Cowichan River. While fishing the upper Cowichan in January, sometimes an early steelhead grabs our fly. Dryfly action is best from about 12:30 to 2:30, and later in the evening when caddis hatch. Sometimes they selectively feed on the stone cased caddis larva. The spinner has more of an orange-brown color with a darker body and clearer wings. From Late October to January, trout may take other items, but salmon eggs are their principal source of nourishment. Because private property limits some access and in high water the riverside willows restrict the remainder, it is common for anglers to drift the river in boats. This area is fly fishing only. Brown trout are especially aware of this food source. Trout prefer a free drift with the odd twitch. The WMB dun has a tan body, brown thorax and speckled grey-tan wing. Large rainbows migrate downstream from the lake to join the few resident fish dining on the eggs. It doesn't take long to find out. These months provide the most trout and the largest. The Cowichan River has some of the finest trout fishing anywhere from late October to December. This protects spawning steelhead and trout without preventing fishing. Some steelhead reach Skutz Falls in late December, but very few reach the upper river until mid-January. The brown trout guarded the eggs in the fall and went to school in specific places. It is the only hatch that constantly brings the trout on the surface. At Christmas there is usually a good river race. They are like silver rockets with burners after turned on. Sometimes there is a hatch of storm and trout goes on a food frenzy. This great fly is more numerous in the superior cowichan fly fishing section. The Greendale road enters the village of Lake Cowichan at the old railway bridge. The Bruni are the largest cowichan trout and up to 10 pounds are captured every year. Accommodations and services in the Cowichan River area at the end of March and early April is the real beginning of the trout season. By June the only increase is in the evening. CodDis babe has an average olive body and a dark gray chest. In addition to the trout, Cowichan also supports the steel head and three species of Pacific Salmon: Coho, Chinook and Chum. In winter there is a constant flow of dorys, rafts and drift aluminum skiing. Caddis has about the size 14, but the trout accepts anything up to size 10. The bait is prohibited on the upper Cowichan between Stanley Creek in the Lake Cowichan Village and Skutz Falls, 10 km downstream. Above Skutz Falls there is an old rail grade leading to the railway bridge of 70.2 miles and trails along the river. River.
