Do not make too high demands on yourself. Do you know someone who speaks German as a native language? Then arrange meetings to speak German. Another way to practice your listening comprehension is to listen to German songs, podcasts or audio books. It is important for your listening comprehension that you familiarize yourself with the sound and pronunciation. When listening, pay attention to what you already understand or what the song, podcast or audio book is about. For songs, you can do great research on the internet for the lyrics and translate the vocabulary or phrases you don't know. The advantage of podcasts and audio books is that they speak more clearly. On other days, you spend hours studying German vocabulary and grammar. However, it is much more important to study regularly. It's best to study one hour a day instead of five hours once a week. This way you will make the most progress! After 30 - 45 minutes of intensive German learning, it is recommended to take a 5-minute break. Especially when learning, meaningful breaks are important to process what you have learned and to gather your energy.
